Chapter II - LEGAL PROTECTION OF PLANT VARIETIES

PART I - Conditions for the grant of legal protection Requirements (criteria)

Article 7. (1) Legal protection for plant varieties is granted when the variety is:

1. new;
2. distinct;
3. homogeneous;
4. stable.

(2) The plant variety should bear a variety denomination related to its generic designation as per Article 12.

Novelty

Article 8. (1) The variety is deemed to be new if, at the date of filing the application for a certificate, the same or propagating material of the variety or harvest thereof has not been offered for sale, sold, or otherwise used commercially, or has been offered with the consent of the breeder:

1. in the territory of the Republic of Bulgaria for not more than one year;
2. in the territory of any other country for not more than:

- a) 6 years when concerning trees or vines;
- b) 4 years when concerning any other plant species.

(2) Any variety test does not affect its novelty and cannot be used to the prejudice of the breeder's right.

Distinctness (distinguishability)

Article 9. (1) The variety is deemed to be distinct when it clearly differs from any other variety which is a variety of common knowledge by the date of filing of the application with the Patent Office.

(2) A variety shall be deemed to be a variety of common knowledge if, by the filing date of the application, it has been made by cultivation, is an object of marketing, trade or any other kind of realization, or is an object of a breeder's right, has been entered in the registers of varieties, included in a reference collection or in a publication containing its precise description, or has become well-known in some other way.

(3) An application for the grant of a breeder's right or for entry of another variety into the Official Register of Varieties in any country shall be deemed to render the variety well-known as from the filing date of the application, provided the application has resulted in the grant of a breeder's right or in the entry of the variety in the Official Register of Varieties.

(4) The indications allowing to define the characteristics and the peculiarities of the variety must be capable of clear and precise description.

Homogeneity (Uniformity)

Article 10. (1) The variety is deemed to be homogeneous when, irrespective of the presence of minor deviations, the plants are identical in their basic features, including the peculiarities of their sexual or vegetative reproduction.

(2) The deviations from any species are determined in accordance with the methods approved by the State Variety Commission.

Stability (Steadiness)

Article 11. The variety is stable when it remains unchanged in terms of its basic features after multiple reproduction (propagation) or, if the breeder has defined a peculiar propagation cycle for the variety bred, and at the end of each cycle the variety has kept a conformity to the description specified for it.

Denomination

Article 12. (1) Any new variety is given a denomination which is related to its genus or species and serves for its identification. The denomination may consist of one or two words, or of a combination of words, letters and numerals, but not exceeding a four-digit number.

(2) The variety denomination should also satisfy the following requirements:

1. it should differ from any other denomination used in the country for this species or for species close to it, or from a denomination which designates a variety already existing in each Contracting State, including after the expiration date of the certificate;
2. it should exclude any possibility for misleading or misunderstanding with regard to the features, the nature or the identity of the specific variety or the personality of the breeder;
3. it should not infringe earlier acquired rights of third parties who have obtained the right to such denomination, if the breeder may be granted the right to the same denomination as per item 4. In this case the Patent Office requires from the breeder to propose another variety denomination.
4. any person offering for sale or for commercial use in any Contracting State a reproducing material of a protected variety or of a variety in a process of examination is obliged to use the variety denomination even after the lapse of the protection of this variety, as far as it does not contradict to earlier acquired rights for its use, as per the preceding paragraph.

(3) When a variety is offered for sale or for commercial use, a trademark, an appellation of origin or other designation may be added to the registered variety denomination of the protected variety. After the addition of such designations the variety denomination must be clearly and easily distinguishable.

PART II - DOCUMENT FOR PROTECTION

Certificate

Article 13. (1) The legal protection of a variety is provided by a certificate.

(2) The certificate certifies for the existence of a registered plant variety, the priority, the right to authorship and the exclusive right of the certificate owner on the variety.

(3) The certificate is granted by the Patent Office after an expert examination of the variety - object of the application.

(4) The certificate has a duration limit as from its date of grant:

1. 30 years for tree and vine varieties;
2. 25 years for all other varieties.

Right to apply

Article 14. (1) The right to apply belongs to the author or to his assignee.

(2) The applicant is considered to have the right to apply, unless otherwise instituted by the court.

(3) In cases when several authors have jointly created or discovered and developed a variety, the right to apply belongs to them jointly. The refusal of one or several of them to participate in the process of application or in the procedure of grant of a certificate is not an obstacle to the rest of them to perform acts as stipulated by the Law, or to exercise their rights.

(4) When a variety is bred under the conditions of Article 16, the right to apply belongs to the employer if he files an application within three months from the date of receiving a written notification by the author about the variety having been made. Otherwise the right to apply moves to the author.

(5) In case of a variety made on a contract basis, the right to apply belongs to the person assigning the task, unless otherwise provided for in the contract. If the task assigner does not exercise this right of his within the time limits as per paragraph 4, the right to apply moves to the author of the variety.

(6) The employees of the Patent Office and of the State Variety Commission have no right to file applications for plant varieties or to be mentioned as co-authors for the period of their labour relations with these state authorities and for three years after the termination of these relations, excluding the cases when the variety is a result of natural mutations, established during the examination as to substance, as per Article 38, paragraphs 1 and 2.

Right to a certificate

Article 15. (1) The right to a certificate belongs to the person who has the right to apply as per Article 14.

(2) When several persons have made a variety independently, the right to a certificate belongs to the person who has first filed an application for this variety with the Patent Office.

Service Variety

Article 16. (1) A service variety is a variety made or discovered and developed in the performance of duties arising from employment or other legal relations of the author of the variety, unless otherwise provided for by a contract.

(2) The variety is a service variety as per paragraph 1, when during the process of its creation the author has been:

1. performing duties inherent to his position;
2. performing duties beyond the ones specified in item 1, when such duties have been specifically assigned to him and he has been expected to make the new variety;
3. using material or financial resources, provided by the employer or the person who has assigned the task.

(3) When the variety is a service variety only with regard to one or to several of the authors, or the performers respectively, the provisions of paragraphs 1 and 2 and of Article 14 are applicable only to these authors, their employers or task assigners.

(4) Within three months of the creation of the variety, the author is obliged to notify in writing the employer, the task assigner, respectively, about that fact.

(5) The person who has created a service variety has the right to authorship as per Article 4, paragraphs 2, 3 and 4, and the right to an equitable remuneration of not less than 4%, if no provisions for such have been made in the respective contract. The remuneration is determined taking into account in particular the following:

1. the profit determined by all kinds of realizations of the variety for the period of the effect of the certificate;
2. the value of the variety;
3. the contribution of the employer and/or the task assigner in terms of capital investments for the creation of the variety, materials, equipment, knowledge, experience, personnel and other assistance provided.
4. the conditions of employment of the author.

(6) When the interests of the employer impose that the variety be applied for after the three-month time period as per Article 14, paragraph 4, the author has the right to an equitable remuneration for the time of suspension of the act of filing the application, as well as to all rights arising from the certificate granted for that variety later. These relations between the employer and the author are arranged by a contract before the expiration of the three months.

(7) When a variety certificate application is filed by the author within three years from the termination of the labour contract or of any other legal relations as per paragraph 1, the employer, the task assigner, respectively, may claim for the right to obtain the certificate, except for the case when he has been notified by the author of the variety created and has not exercised the right under Art. 14(4). This right may be exercised within one year from the publication for the application as per Article 36.

(8) The remuneration to the author is payable by the employer, and when the employer is not the certificate owner it is payable by the certificate owner

(9) In case of remuneration as per paragraphs 5, 6 and 8, irrespective of whether it is negotiated in a contract or specified in accordance with the rules regulated, which is considered unfair in view of the real profit gained and the value of the variety, such remuneration may be increased upon the author's request. In case of refusal on the part of the employer, the dispute is settled through the court.

(10) When a service variety is created or discovered and developed outside the country, the rights of the author, if any, are determined in accordance with the operative rules, regulating the relations with the employer.

Provisional Protection

Article 17. (1) For the period from the publication for the application for grant of a certificate for a variety with the Patent Office until the grant of a certificate, a provisional protection is provided to the applicant against illegal acts of other persons.

(2) The scope of the provisional protection is determined by the description and the embodiment, insofar as the certificate granted does not extend the latter.

(3) The applicant is entitled to an equitable remuneration payable by the person who, during the period specified in paragraph 1, has performed acts which, after the grant of a certificate, require the certificate owner's consent in accordance with Article 18.

Limitation on the Breeder's Rights

Article 19. (1) Irrespective of the provisions of Article 18, paragraph 1, for the purposes of stimulating agricultural production, farmers have the right to use for their own needs for the purpose of reproduction in their own farms the product of harvest they have obtained through planting in their own farm, propagating material of a variety other than the hybrid or the artificially obtained variety, protected by a certificate.
