Regulation No 251

Adopted 14 July 1998

Regulations on the Registration of Aquaculture Animal Farms, Certification of River Basin Zones, Control of Infectious Aquaculture Animal Diseases on Farms and in River Basin Zones, and Requirements Applicable to the Placing of Aquaculture Animals on the Market

Issued pursuant to Section 22, Paragraph 6 of the Law On Veterinary Medicine

I. General Provisions

1. Terms used in these Regulations:

1.1. aquaculture animals – live fish and other aquatic animals (except aquatic mammals and amphibians) at any stage of development, if they have been reared on farms, in bodies of water created artificially specially for this purpose or in natural bodies of water which have been adapted for the rearing of aquatic animals, and fish and other aquatic animals which have been caught in natural bodies of water and are intended for further rearing under controlled conditions;

1.2. aquaculture products – gametes and eggs obtained from aquaculture animals and intended for rearing or for human consumption;

1.3. farm – any undertaking or structure where aquaculture animals are reared or kept for the placing of such on the market or for the restocking of resources;

1.4. gametes – egg-cells and spermatozoa of aquaculture animals;

1.5. aquaculture animals suspected of being infected – animals showing post-mortem pathological anatomical changes or regarding which laboratory tests give rise to reasonable suspicion of the presence of diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1);

1.6. farms suspected of being infected – farms containing aquaculture animals suspected of being infected;

1.7. eggs – fertilised egg-cells of aquaculture animals;

1.8. infected aquaculture animals – animals in which the presence of a disease included in lists I or II (Annex 1) has been determined as the result of laboratory examination of samples or as the result of post-mortem examination;

1.9. infected farms – farms containing infected aquaculture animals (including farms which have been evacuated but not yet disinfected);

1.10. placing on the market – the offering for sale of aquaculture animals and aquaculture products, the sale thereof to wholesalers, and the supply and transfer thereof for further rearing or restocking of aquaculture animal resources;

1.11. river basin zone – the territory from the source of a watercourse to the place where it flows into the sea, which territory covers all the fishery area or a part of it and wherein aquaculture animals are reared, kept or caught; and

1.12. the lowest fishery area of a river basin zone – estuary of the relevant river basin zone.

2. These Regulations determine the procedures for registration of farms and certification of river basin zones, infectious diseases of aquaculture animals and the control of such diseases on farms and in river basin zones, requirements which aquaculture animals and aquaculture products intended to be placed on the market shall conform with, and the division of the territory of Latvia into river basin zones (Annex 2) in order to maximally ensure the possibility of avoiding pollution because of migration of aquaculture animals.

II. Procedures for Registration of Farms and Certification of River Basin Zones

3. Farms shall ensure that aquaculture animals and aquaculture products to be placed on the market are so reared that they are safe for human health, human life and the environment.

4. The competent authorities shall inspect, monitor and register farms in accordance with the requirements of these Regulations and other legal enactments.

5. The competent authority – the State Veterinary Service – shall inspect farms or the lower fishery areas of river basin zones twice a year – in the spring and in the autumn when the water temperature is from 8 to 10 degrees Celsius, which is conducive to the development of the diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1). Samples for laboratory examinations shall be taken on a rotational basis from 50% of the farms situated in each river basin zone.

6. The State Veterinary Service, on the basis of results of the inspection referred to in Paragraph 5 of these Regulations, shall:

6.1. register a farm and allocate to it an official registration number, if diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1) have not been detected within the relevant farm;

6.2. issue a registration certificate, setting out the type of activity of the relevant farm; 6.3. certify the river basin zones where the presence of diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1) has not been detected in aquaculture animals over a four-year period, provided that all farms of the relevant zone have been under regular surveillance and there have been no reports of disease in aquaculture animals or aquaculture products, or reports of any transfer of aquaculture animals from river basin zones in which infected farms or infected aquaculture animals are located;

6.4. suspend the certification of a river basin zone until results of laboratory examination of samples are obtained if it is suspected that aquaculture animals, wild fish or crustaceans in such zone could be infected with a disease included in lists I or II (Annex 1);

6.5. renew the certification of a river basin zone, if no diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1) are detected in laboratory examination of samples;

6.6. without delay annul the certification of a river basin zone, if official confirmation is received of the presence of diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1) in the relevant river basin zone;

6.7. renew the certification of a river basin zone in accordance with Sub-paragraph 6.3. of these Regulations, but only after the following measures have been taken:

6.7.1. all the infected aquaculture animals are destroyed;

6.7.2. all the aquaculture animals of the infected farm are killed; and

6.7.3. the facilities and equipment of the infected farm are disinfected in accordance with the procedures prescribed in regulatory enactments; and

6.8. if diseases included in list III (Annex 1) are detected, the results of examination of the farms shall be compiled and the procedures pertaining to farms in regard to exchange of aquaculture animals and aquaculture products shall be determined.

7. The State Veterinary Service shall set up, supplement, update and keep for four years a register which contains the time and results of inspections of farms and of the lowest fishery area of a river basin zone, as well as the types of activity and registration numbers of the farms.

8. The register shall include the following information regarding farms suspected of being infected:

8.1. the number or weight and the size of all aquaculture animals and aquaculture products on the farm;

8.2. the place of origin and supplier of aquaculture animals or aquaculture products entering the farm;

8.3. the place of destination of aquaculture animals or aquaculture products leaving the farm; and

8.4. data on the mortality rates of the aquaculture animals.

9. The State Veterinary Service shall draw up lists of registered farms and certified river basin zones, make the necessary amendments to them and inform all interested authorities of the annulment, suspension and renewal of the certification of river basin zones.

III. Requirements Regarding Carriage and Placing of Aquaculture Animals and Aquaculture Products on the Market

10. Aquaculture animals and aquaculture products shall be provided optimal living conditions during transport.

11. The water changed during transport of aquaculture animals shall not contain agents causing diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1). The used water shall not be allowed to enter the open sea or other river basins.

12. Aquaculture animals and aquaculture products intended to be further reared shall conform with the following requirements:

12.1. they shall not have clinical signs of infectious diseases;

12.2. they must not be intended for destruction or slaughter in connection with the prevention on the farm of spread of a disease which is set out in Annex 1 to these Regulations; and

12.3. they must not be supplied from a farm to which any restrictions due to the state of health of aquaculture animals apply, and must not have been in contact with aquaculture animals from such a farm.

13. Species of aquaculture animals and aquaculture products susceptible to diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1) may be introduced into a certified river basin zone if the following conditions are complied with:

13.1. aquaculture animals and aquaculture products may be transferred only from a certified river basin zone or a registered farm;

13.2. a veterinary certificate is drawn up in accordance with Annex 3 of these Regulations;

13.3. the State Veterinary Service has drawn up the veterinary certificate at the place of origin of the aquaculture animals and aquaculture products within a 48-hour period prior to their being loaded into or on a means of transport; and 13.4. the term of validity of the veterinary certificate is 10 days.

14. Aquaculture animals or aquaculture products intended for human consumption may be brought into a certified river basin zone from an uncertified river basin zone if the following conditions are complied with:

14.1. aquaculture animals of species susceptible to the diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1) shall be killed and gutted prior to shipment; and 14.2. aquaculture animals may be ungutted if they are brought in from a registered farm.

15. Each freight shipment of aquaculture animals and aquaculture products shall be labelled with the name of the farm of origin.

16. Aquaculture animals and aquaculture products of species immune to diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1), as well as wild fish, crustaceans and their eggs and gametes may be brought into a certified river basin zone or into a registered farm on an uncertified river basin zone if the following conditions are complied with:

16.1. the animals and products referred to are brought in from a certified river basin zone or a registered farm and there are no species of aquaculture animals susceptible to diseases included in lists I or II (Annex 1) in the river basin zone or registered farm;

16.2. the farm of origin of the aquaculture animals and aquaculture products is not connected with other watercourses; and

16.3. a veterinary certificate is drawn up in accordance with Annex 3 of these Regulations.

IV. Export of Aquaculture Animals and Aquaculture Products

17. The State Veterinary Service shall regularly inform the Standing Veterinary Committee of the European Union, and the International Office of Epizootic Diseases, with regard to the following matters:

17.1. the health of aquaculture animals, the surrounding environmental conditions and the infectious diseases of aquaculture animals, wild fish and crustaceans encountered within the territory of the State, in accordance with Annex 4 of these Regulation;

17.2. control measures with respect to infectious diseases of aquaculture animals;

17.3. the structure and rights of the State Veterinary Service; and

17.4. provisions for ensuring compliance with these Regulations.

18. In exporting aquaculture animals and aquaculture products, the following conditions shall be complied with:

18.1. each freight shipment of aquaculture animals and aquaculture products shall have a veterinary certificate issued by the State Veterinary Service;

18.2. the veterinary certificate shall be issued within a 48-hour period prior to loading the aquaculture animals and aquaculture products into or on a means of transport;

18.3. the veterinary certificate must contain an affirmation that the aquaculture animals and aquaculture products conform to the requirements set out in these Regulations; and

18.4. the period of validity of the veterinary certificate shall be 10 days
