7. - (1) If a veterinary inspector suspects that poultry on any premises may have been exposed to the risk of a designated disease, that inspector shall serve a notice on the occupier or person in charge of the premises in accordance with this article.

(2) A veterinary inspector who suspects-

(4) On service of a notice under this article, a veterinary inspector may enter premises which are the subject of such notice and use whatever means that inspector thinks suitable to detect the existence of any disease, to count the birds, and to monitor their movements.

(5) On service of a notice under this article, no person shall move any bird or any other thing liable to transmit disease from the premises except under the authority of a licence granted by a veterinary inspector.

(6) A veterinary inspector may limit the measures provided for in a notice served under this article to a part of the premises and to the birds contained

(3) In this article, "suspect premises" means premises containing poultry, captive birds or racing pigeons and which in the opinion of the veterinary inspector may have been exposed to the risk of a designated disease because of

(3) Without prejudice to the bringing of proceedings under the 1981 Act, where a notice under this article is not complied with, any person authorised by the Scottish Ministers or the local authority may enter the premises or vehicle to which the notice relates and carry out the work of cleansing and disinfection required and the cost of such work shall be recoverable as a debt from the person on whom the notice was served.

(4) For the purposes of this article "cleansing" includes the disposal of all litter, droppings and other matter in a manner which does not present a risk of the spread of disease.

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order (read with the Animal Health Act 1981) further implements Council Directive 92/40/EEC introducing Community measures for the control of avian influenza (O.J. No. L 167, 22.6.92, p.1) and Council Directive 92/66/EEC introducing Community measures for the control of Newcastle disease (O.J. No. L 260, 5.9.92, p.1) ("the Directives"). The Directives were previously implemented by the Diseases of Poultry Order 1994 ("the 1994 Order") and the Diseases of Poultry (Amendment) Order 1997, both revoked by this Order. This Order, like the Directives, now applies to ratites.

This Order also extends provisions in article 5A of the 1994 Order (relating to inspection powers and movement restrictions) to diseases of birds and to species of birds not covered by the Directives. These provisions are set out in article 7 of this Order.

Articles 1 to 3 of the Order contain introductory and interpretation provisions.

Article 4 provides for the notification of designated diseases and for the taking of precautionary measures when disease is suspected. Article 5 sets out restrictions which may apply if a designated disease is suspected or known to exist. Article 6 provides for veterinary inquiry into the existence of a designated disease. Article 7 sets out restrictions which apply where poultry or other birds are suspected of having been exposed to the risk of disease. Article 8 provides for veterinary inquiry as to the possible existence of disease. Article 9 provides for the measures to be taken where a designated disease is confirmed. The restrictions referred to in articles 4, 5 and 9 are set out in Schedule 1.

Article 10 sets out the duties of occupiers and persons in charge of premises served with a notice under the Order.

Article 11 provides for the declaration by the Scottish Ministers of an infected area where disease has been confirmed. The restrictions applicable in an infected area are set out in Schedule 2.

Article 12 allows the Scottish Ministers to require vaccination of poultry. Article 13 sets out restrictions applicable to racing pigeons. Article 14 contains provisions on cleansing and disinfection. Article 15 relates to the keeping of records and article 16 to licences and notices. Article 17 sets out the general powers of veterinary inspectors under the Order. Article 18 provides for the Order to be enforced generally by local authorities. Article 19 revokes the 1994 Order and the Diseases of Poultry (Amendment) Order 1997 insofar as they apply to Scotland.

Failure to comply with this Order is an offence under section 73 of the Animal Health Act 1981.
