- (1) Subject to this Act, proceedings (whether original or appellate) under any part of the provisions of the criminal laws in force in a State or Territory as applying by virtue of this Act shall be instituted and conducted in a State or Territory in the same manner as though they were proceedings under the law of that last-mentioned State or Territory and all other proceedings in relation to any such proceedings (including declining to proceed further in a prosecution) shall also be taken as though the first-mentioned proceedings were proceedings under that law.
- (2) Subsection (1) does not prevent:

This Act is not intended to exclude the operation of any provision of a law in force in a State or Territory in so far as that provision is capable of operating concurrently with the provisions of the criminal laws in force in the States and Territories as applying by virtue of this Act.

16 Presumption of jurisdiction

In any proceedings in which an act that is shown to have been committed is alleged to have been committed in the course of such a voyage, or in such a place, that a provision of the criminal laws in force in a State or Territory applies, or is deemed to have applied, by virtue of this Act to the act, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is established, that the act was committed in the course of such a voyage or in such a place.
