Section 11R: inserted, on 1 July 1996, by section 9 of the Food Amendment Act 1996 (1996 No 41).

11S Application of food standards and food regulations during transition period

Except as provided in section 11W or section 11Y or section 11ZA, during the transition period,—

- (a) no food standard shall apply in respect of any person or any food, and—
 - (i) no person shall be liable to be prosecuted for, or convicted of, any offence relating to any food standard; and
 - (ii) no power or duty conferred or imposed by any of sections 12, 13, 14, 15A, 17, or 20 in relation to the enforcement of, or any breach or alleged breach of, any food standard shall be exercised or performed in respect of any person or any food; and

11T Minister to identify alternative food standards

- (1) Where—
 - (a) any food standards are issued under this Act; and
 - (b) it is intended that compliance with those food standards, during the transition period, is to be an alternative to compliance with 1 or more particular provisions of the Food Regulations 1984,—those food standards shall contain a provision (in this section referred to as a declaring provision) stating that compliance with those food standards is to be an alternative to compliance with such provisions of the Food Regulations 1984 as are specified in the declaring provision.
- (2) It shall not be necessary, for the purposes of this section, for a declaring provision to identify, in respect of each and every provision of any food standards, which provision of the Food Regulations 1984 is a superseded food regulation, as long as the declaring provision contains sufficient detail to enable a reasonable person to ascertain which provisions of the Food

Regulations 1984 need not be complied with if those food standards are complied with.

Section 11T: inserted, on 1 July 1996, by section 9 of the Food Amendment Act 1996 (1996 No 41).

11U Persons may elect to be governed by food standards

- (1) This section applies to the following persons:
 - (a) any person who is an importer of food or who intends to import any food:
 - (b) any person who manufactures or intends to manufacture any food:
 - (c) any person who prepares or intends to prepare food for sale:
 - (d) any person who sells or intends to sell any food:
 - (e) any other person to whom any provision of the Food Regulations 1984 applies.
- (2) Any person to whom this section applies may, at any time during the transition period, elect that alternative food standards are to apply, during the transition period, in respect of a particular food dealt with by that person.
- (3) Any person who wishes to make an election shall record an entry in a register kept by that person for the purpose.
- (4) Every such entry made pursuant to subsection (3)—
 - (a) shall be in the prescribed form (if any); and
 - (b) shall specify the following particulars:
 - (i) the particular food in respect of which the election is made:
 - (ii) the date on and from which the election is to take effect.

Section 11U: inserted, on 1 July 1996, by section 9 of the Food Amendment Act 1996 (1996 No 41).

11V Revocation of election

 - (i) any dealings by that person with food in respect of which that election applies; and

Section 11W: inserted, on 1 July 1996, by section 9 of the Food Amendment Act 1996 (1996 No 41).

11X Effect of adoption of alternative food standards on persons subsequently selling food

The fact that, by virtue of an election made by any person, any food standards apply, in accordance with section 11W, during the transition period, in respect of any food dealt with by that person does not require any other person (in this subsection referred to as the seller) who sells that food to comply with those food standards, if—

- (a) the first-mentioned person disposed of that food in a package; and

- (b) the seller obtained that food (whether from the first-mentioned person or from any other person) in that same package; and
- (c) the seller sells that food in that same package; and
- (d) the food has at no time between its disposal by the first-mentioned person and its sale by the seller been repackaged.

 - (b) that person can lawfully deal with that food under this Act in that manner only by complying with the provisions of alternative food standards (whether or not that person must also comply with any provision of the Food Regulations 1984 or any mandatory food standards),—
- then that person shall not deal with that food in that manner unless that person has elected that those alternative food standards are to apply in respect of that food.

Section 11Y: inserted, on 1 July 1996, by section 9 of the Food Amendment Act 1996 (1996 No 41).

11Z Minister may declare mandatory food standard

- (3) The Minister may at any time, in like manner, amend or revoke any declaration made under this section.

Section 11Z: inserted, on 1 July 1996, by section 9 of the Food Amendment Act 1996 (1996 No 41).

Notwithstanding section 11S, where a mandatory food standard applies in respect of any food, then, during the transition period,—

 - (i) that food; and that person shall, on request by any other person, promptly tell the other person whether the first-mentioned person has elected that alternative food standards are to apply in respect of that food.

 - (a) that the seizure be disallowed in whole or in part; or
 - (b) that the detention of the article be terminated in whole or in part; or
 - (c) that compensation be paid by the Crown or the local authority for any depreciation in the value of the article resulting from its seizure, detention, or removal, and any transport and storage costs;—and any such order may be made upon and subject to such terms and conditions as the court thinks fit.
- (3) No order that the seizure of the article be disallowed or that the detention of the article be terminated in whole or in part shall be made if the court is of the opinion that the purpose to which that article or that part is intended to be put will probably involve the commission of an offence against this Act, or any regulations made under this Act, or that the continued detention of that article or that part is expedient for the purposes of its production in any pending proceedings under this Act.

- (4) No order for the payment of compensation shall be made except in respect of an article or part that, in the opinion of the court, ought not to have been seized or continued to be detained, as the case may be, and except to the extent that the court disallows the seizure or terminates the detention.
- (5) Where the court makes an order for the payment of any sum by way of compensation to any person under this section, the sum so awarded shall be recoverable by that person as a debt due from the Crown or the local authority, as the case may be.
- (6) Every application to the court under this section shall be made and dealt with by way of originating application filed in the office of the court nearest to the place where the article in dispute was seized or ordered to be detained.

- (8) Except as modified by subsections (6) and (7), the rules of procedure for the time being in force under the District Courts Act 1947 shall apply with respect to every application to the court under this section.
- (9) Every order made by the court under this section shall be final and binding on all parties.
- (10) Nothing in this section shall limit or affect the Customs Act 1966 or any other enactment.

- (1) Any officer acting in the exercise of any of his powers under this Act may require any person who is in possession of any food for sale, or for delivery upon sale, to state correctly his name and address and, so far as he is aware of them, the name and address of the person from whom he obtained the food.

20 Procuring of samples for analysis

- (1) For the purposes of analysis, an officer may demand and select and take or obtain samples of any food, or of any substance reasonably believed by him to be a food, or any appliance, in accordance with this section.
- (2) When an officer intends to procure a sample of a food, or an appliance, for the purposes of analysis, he shall—
 - (a) pay or tender the current market value of the sample or appliance to the owner or the person from whom it is obtained;
 - (b) before or forthwith after obtaining the sample or appliance, inform the owner or the person from whom it is obtained of his intention to submit it to an analyst;
 - (c) thereafter, in the case of a sample, deal with the sample in the manner set out in section 21.

- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2), an officer may require the person in possession of a food, or his employee or agent, to show and permit the inspection of any package containing the food and to take therefrom the sample demanded.
- (4) Where any food is kept for retail sale in an unopened package, no person shall be required by any officer to sell less than the whole of the contents of the package.
- (5) Nothing in this section or in section 21 shall apply to the procuring of a sample of a food from a vending machine if the officer obtains the sample by properly making payment for it and no person present admits to being in charge of the machine.
- (6) Notwithstanding anything in this section or in section 21,—
 - (a) an officer shall not be obliged to submit to an analyst any sample or appliance that he has obtained:
 - (b) an officer may inspect, select, and take or purchase any sample, or appliance, for the purposes of analysis without complying with those sections, but in that event no regard shall be had to the results of any such analysis in any proceedings before any court in respect of an offence against this Act or against any regulations made under this Act.
- (7) Every person commits an offence against this Act who refuses or fails to comply with any demand or requirement made by an officer under this section.

21 How samples to be dealt with

- (1) Subject to the succeeding provisions of this section, where an officer has procured a sample of a food under section 20 (except subsection (8)), he shall—
 - (a) divide the sample into 3 parts; and

- (b) mark and seal or fasten up each part in such manner as its nature will permit; and
 - (c) leave 1 part with the owner of the food from which the sample was taken or the person from whom the sample was procured.
- (2) When any food is contained in a package in such quantity that its division into 3 parts would, in the opinion of the officer, furnish parts insufficient for accurate analysis, additional packages that purport to contain a similar food under the same brand or label may be taken or procured, and the contents of 2 or more packages may be mixed together and the mixture divided and submitted for analysis as provided in this section.
- (3) If the officer who has procured the sample considers that it should be analysed, he shall submit 1 part of the sample to an analyst for this purpose and shall retain the third part.
- (4) Where—
 - (a) a sample of food is procured only for bacteriological analysis; or
 - (b) a sample of milk is procured only for examination by the freezing point test for added water; or
 - (c) a sample of milk is procured for bacteriological analysis and examination by the freezing point test for added water,—the officer may submit the whole sample to the analyst instead of dividing it into parts, unless the owner of the food from which the sample was taken or the person from whom the sample was procured requires him to leave a part with such owner or person, in which case it shall be sufficient compliance with that requirement if the officer selects, marks, and seals 2 packages that purport to contain similar food under the same brand or label, as the case may require, and leaves 1 of them.
- (5) Subject to subsection (6), if the officer reasonably believes that the food of which he seeks to procure a sample is of such a nature or so packed that there is a risk of its quality being affected in the course and by reason of the procedure prescribed in subsection (1), or there is a danger of the portions not being representative of the bulk of the sample, the officer may submit the whole sample to the analyst instead of dividing it into 3 parts.

- (6) In any case to which subsection (5) applies, if the owner of the food or the person from whom the sample was procured so requires, the officer shall select, mark, and seal another package that purports to contain a similar food under the same brand or label, as the case may require, and leave it with that owner or person.

Compare: 1969 No 7 s 24; 1979 No 27 s 54

- (2) Where any method of analysis for the analysis of any food is prescribed, an analyst shall use that method and shall declare in his certificate of analysis that he has done so.
- (3) Any certificate of the result of an analysis or any report given by an analyst in pursuance of this section shall be signed by the analyst, but the analysis may be made by any person acting under the direction of the analyst.
- (4) When any sample is procured by an officer under this Act and submitted for analysis, the person from whom the sample was procured, and the manufacturer or importer of the food, may, on payment of the prescribed fee, obtain a copy of the analyst's certificate or, if there is no such certificate, a copy of the report made by the analyst in respect of the sample.
- (5) [Repealed]
- (6) Every person commits an offence against this Act who publishes or causes to be published any advertisement relating to any food or appliance which states that the food or appliance has been analysed by an analyst under this Act, or quotes or purports to quote the findings of any analyst under this Act in relation to the food or appliance, whether or not those findings are given in any certificate or report prepared for the purposes of this Act.

23 Evidence of analysis

- (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (3), in any proceedings for an offence against this Act, a certificate purporting to be signed by an analyst in the prescribed form shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be sufficient evidence of the authority of the person who signed the certificate and of the facts stated in the certificate.

- (2) A certificate referred to in subsection (1) shall be admissible in evidence only if—
 - (a) at least 14 clear days before the hearing at which the certificate is tendered, a copy of that certificate (in addition to the copy required by section 27A(1) to be served with the summons) is served, by or on behalf of the prosecutor, on the defendant, and the defendant is, at the same time, informed in writing that the prosecutor does not propose to call the analyst as a witness at the hearing; and
 - (b) the defendant does not, by notice in writing given to the prosecutor at least 7 clear days before the hearing, require the analyst to be called by the prosecutor as a witness at the hearing.
- (3) No certificate referred to in subsection (1) shall be admissible in evidence if the court, of its own motion, directs that the result of the analysis shall be disregarded unless that result is proved by the oral evidence of the analyst.
- (4) No certificate of an analyst and no other evidence of an analysis under this Act shall be ruled inadmissible or disregarded by reason only of the fact that any of the provisions of this Act or of any regulations or food standards made under this Act relating to the taking or analysing of samples have not been strictly complied with, if there has been reasonable compliance with those provisions.

- (1) Subject to subsections (2) and (4), it shall be a good defence in a prosecution for selling any food contrary to any provision of this Act or any regulations or food standards made under this Act if the defendant proves—
 - (a) that he purchased the article sold by him in reliance on a written warranty or other written statement as to the nature of the article purchased, signed by or on behalf of the person from whom the defendant purchased the article; and
 - (b) that if the article had truly conformed to the warranty or statement, the sale of the article by the defendant would not have constituted the offence charged against him; and
 - (c) that he had no reason to believe or suspect that the article sold by him did not conform to the warranty or statement; and
 - (d) that at the time of the commission of the alleged offence, the article was in the same state as it was when he purchased it.
- (2) No warranty or statement shall be any defence under this section unless—

- (3) Subject to subsection (4), it shall be a good defence in a prosecution for selling any food contrary to any provision of this Act or of any regulations or food standards made under this Act if the defendant proves—
- (a) that he purchased the article sold by him in a package and sold it in the same package and in the same condition as the article was in at the time when he purchased it; and
 - (b) that he could not with reasonable diligence have ascertained that the sale of the article would constitute the offence charged against him.
- (4) Neither subsection (1) nor subsection (3) shall apply unless, within 7 days after the service of the summons, or within such further time as the court may allow, the defendant has delivered to the prosecutor a copy of the warranty or statement, if any, and a written notice to the effect that he intends to rely on it or on subsection (3), as the case may require, and specifying the name and address of the person from whom he received the warranty or statement or package, and has also, within the same time, sent by post a like notice of his intention to that person.
- (5) Where the defendant is an agent or employee of the person who purchased the article under such a warranty or statement or in such a package, he shall be entitled to the benefit of this section in the same manner and to the same extent as his principal or employer would have been if he had been the defendant.

- (a) the person who has manufactured, imported, or prepared the food; or
- (b) the person who is the owner of the rights of manufacture of the food or has enclosed it in the package; or
- (c) the agent of any such person,— shall, unless he proves the contrary, be deemed to have so manufactured, imported, prepared, or enclosed the food or, as the case may require, to be the agent of such a person, and shall be liable in the same manner and to the same extent as if he had actually sold the food at the time and place at which the sale was made, and, if that sale involved the commission of an offence against this Act, he shall be deemed to be a party to that offence.

- (2) Subject to subsection (3), it shall be a good defence in a prosecution under subsection (1) if the defendant proves—
