(ii) Where animals used in research, testing, and teaching are ill or injured, they receive, where practicable, treatment that alleviates any unreasonable or unnecessary pain or distress:

(iii) Where, because of the nature of the research, testing, or teaching, the needs referred to in subparagraph (i) cannot be fully met or the treatment referred to in subparagraph (ii) cannot be provided, any degree of pain or distress is reduced to the minimum possible in the circumstances:

(b) To promote efforts---

(i) To reduce the number of animals used in research, testing, and teaching to the minimum necessary:

(ii) To refine techniques used in any research, testing, and teaching so that the harm caused to the animals is minimised and the benefits are maximised:

(iii) To replace animals as subjects for research, and testing by substituting, where appropriate, non-sentient or non-living alternatives:

(iv) To replace the use of animals in teaching by substituting for animals, where appropriate, non-sentient or non-living alternatives or by imparting the information in another way.

81. Effect of this Part---(1) Nothing in Parts 1 and 2 prevents animals being used in research, testing, or teaching in accordance with this Part.

(2) The limitation imposed by subsection (1) on the application of Parts 1 and 2 does not apply in any case where any animal is used in research, testing, or teaching other than in accordance with this Part or other than in accordance with the conditions of any project approval.

(2) This section has effect despite anything in sections 82 and 83.

85. Restrictions on use of non-human hominids---(1) No person may carry out any research, testing, or teaching involving the use of a non-human hominid unless such use has first been approved by the Director-General and the research, testing, or teaching is carried out in accordance with any conditions imposed by the Director-General.

(2) The Director-General may, in giving approval under subsection (1), impose, as conditions of that approval, such conditions as the Director-General thinks fit.

(b) That the use of the non-human hominid in the research, testing, or teaching is in the interests of the species to which the non-human hominid belongs and that the benefits to be derived from the use of the non-human hominid in the research, testing, or teaching are not outweighed by the likely harm to the non-human hominid.

(6) The Director-General must monitor the carrying out of any research, testing, or teaching to which an approval given under subsection (1) relates.

(7) A person commits an offence who contravenes subsection (1).

- (b) A transfer of all or some of the share capital of the code holder has the effect of transferring control of the code holder's business to another person,--- every such assignment or transfer has the effect of revoking the approval of the code of ethical conduct held by the code holder unless that assignment or transfer is effected with the consent of the Director-General.

94. Duration of approval--- (1) Every approval under section 91 of a code of ethical conduct has effect for such period, not exceeding the period of 5 years beginning with the date of the publication in the Gazette of notice of the approval of that code, as the Director-General specifies in that notice.

(3) Except where a code holder applies under section 95 (1) for the suspension or revocation of the approval of a code of ethical conduct, the Director-General must, before revoking or suspending the approval of a code of ethical conduct, give the code holder an opportunity to be heard and must consult with the National Animal Ethics Advisory Committee with regard to the proposed revocation or suspension of the code of ethical conduct.

(4) Where the Director-General decides to approve the suspension or revocation of the approval of a code of ethical conduct, the Director-General must publish a notice of the decision in the Gazette.
