PENALTIES AND REGULATIONS .....................................................................................- 84 -
In accordance with the provisions of Articles 55(3) and 85(1) read together with 101(f) of the Transitional Constitution of the Republic of South Sudan, 2011, (Amended 2015), the Transitional National Legislative Assembly, with the assent of the President hereby enacts the following.
CHAPTER I
PRELIMINARY PROVISIONS

1. Title and Commencement

This Act shall be cited as the “Labour Act, 2017” and shall come into force on the date of its signature by the President.

2. Repeal and Saving

Subject to Section 4(3) of this Act, any provisions of existing legislation governing a subject of this Act are hereby repealed; provided that all proceedings, orders and regulations and appointments taken or made under the repealed provisions, except to the extent they are cancelled by or otherwise inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, shall remain in force and effect, until repealed or amended in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

3. Purpose

The purpose of this Act is to establish a legal framework for the minimum conditions of employment, labour relations, labour institutions, dispute resolution and provision for health and safety at the workplace, in accordance with the Constitution of the Republic of South Sudan, 2011, and in conformity with the international and regional obligations of South Sudan.

4. Authority and Application

(1) This Act is drafted in accordance with the provisions of Article 52, paragraphs (36) and (39) of Schedule A, and paragraph (1) of Schedule C of the Transitional Constitution of the Republic of South Sudan, 2011, (Amended 2015) which grant the Government the legislative and executive competence to enact legislation establishing non-discriminatory standards for labour relations and occupational safety and health at all levels of government in South Sudan.

(2) The provisions of this Act shall not apply to the following:
(a) Army
(b) Organized forces;
(c) National security service;
(d) Judges;
(e) Government Legal Counsels;
(f) Diplomatic service; and
(g) Constitutional post holders.

(3) Except where the context requires otherwise, this Act applies to all employers and employees, other than the categories mentioned under sub-section (2) above.
(4) To the extent that the Civil Service Act, 2011 or other national law establishes conditions of employment more favourable to employees than are established under this Act, the relevant provisions of that Act or other national law shall apply to any employee so covered.

(5) For the purposes of this Act, a person who works for or renders services to any other person is presumed to be an employee of such other person, until the contrary is proven, regardless of the form of the contract stipulated between such parties, if at least one condition below is satisfied.

(a) The performance of the person is subject to the control or direction of the other person;
(b) Working hours of the person are subject to the control or direction of the other Person;
(c) The person has worked for an average of forty or more hours per month over the last three months for the other person;
(d) The person is economically dependent on the person for whom that person works or renders services;
(e) The person is provided with any working tools or equipment by the other Person; or

6. Non-Discrimination

(1) No person shall discriminate, directly or indirectly, against an employee or job applicant in any work policy or practice.

(2) No trade union, Employers’ Association or federation shall discriminate, directly or indirectly in any:

   (a) admission, representation or termination of membership;
   (b) work policy or practice;
   (c) Collective Agreement.

(3) For the purpose of this section, discrimination includes any distinction, exclusion or preference with the effect of nullifying or impairing equality of opportunity or treatment in employment or occupation, based on any of the following grounds:

   (a) race;
   (b) tribe or place of origin;
   (c) national extraction;
   (d) colour;
   (e) sex;
   (f) pregnancy or childbirth;
   (g) marital status;

   (k) political opinion;
   (l) disability or persons with special needs;
   (m) Health and HIV/AIDS; or
   (n) Membership in a trade union or participation in Trade union activities.

(4) The ground of discrimination set out in sub-section (3) (n) above does not apply to the prohibition on discrimination under sub-section (2) above.
(5) Any distinction, exclusion or preference in respect of a particular job shall not constitute discrimination for the purposes of this section if it is:

(a) based on the inherent requirements of the particular job; or

(b) In accordance with special measures adopted by the government to assist persons generally recognized as requiring special assistance.

(6) Where, in proceedings relating to an alleged contravention of this section:

(a) it is alleged that a person took, or is taking, action for a particular reason; and

(b) taking that action for that reason would constitute a contravention of this section,

(c) It is presumed that the action was, or is being, taken for that reason, unless the person against whom the allegation is brought proves otherwise.

7. Sexual Harassment

(1) No person shall sexually harass an employee or an employer. This shall be an offense against an employee and which by its nature has a detrimental effect on that employee’s job performance or satisfaction.

(2) An employer shall ensure that no person shall sexually harass an employee in the course of such employee’s work for the employer.

(3) An employer who employs twenty or more employees shall, after consulting with the employees’ representatives, issue a policy statement on sexual harassment.

(4) The policy statement shall contain, at a minimum:

(a) the definition of sexual harassment as specified in section 5 above; and

(b) a statement:

(i) that every employee is entitled to work that is free of sexual harassment;

(ii) that the employer shall take steps to ensure that no employee is subjected to sexual harassment;

(iii) that the employer shall take such disciplinary measures as the employer deems appropriate against any person under the employer’s direction who subjects any employee to sexual harassment;

(iv) that provides the process for bringing complaints of sexual harassment to the attention of the employer;

(v) that the employer will not disclose the name of a complainant or the circumstances related to the complaint to any person except where disclosure is necessary for the purpose of investigating the complaint or taking disciplinary measures in relation thereto; and that an employee who brings a complaint of sexual harassment in good faith shall not be disciplined, demoted, dismissed or otherwise prejudiced in such employee’s employment with the employer as a consequence.

(5) Sexual harassment does not refer to behaviour that is mutually acceptable to the parties involved. Friendships, whether sexual or otherwise, are a private concern and should be kept out of the workplace.

(6) An Employer shall make rules and regulations against sexual harassment to govern employer and employees in the place of work.

(7) The employer shall bring the policy statement to the attention of each person under the employer direction.

8. Equal Remuneration for Work of Equal Value

(1) Every employee shall be entitled to equal remuneration for work of equal value.

(2) Every employer shall take steps to guarantee equal remuneration for every employee for work of equal value.

(3) Work of equal value is work, which requires of workers a comparable amount of knowledge attested to by a qualification, or work experience, capacities derived from acquired experience, responsibilities and physical or intellectual effort.

(4) Any unilateral decision by an employer or group of employers and any provisions of any agreement of whatever nature, which contravenes the provisions of this section shall be deemed null and void.

(5) The rate of remuneration of employees who have been prejudiced by any discriminatory decision or agreement shall be replaced by the rate of remuneration attributed by virtue of that decision or agreement to the other employees.

(6) An employee who has been paid remuneration at less than the rate to which such employee is entitled in keeping with the equal pay rule, shall have the right to recover from the employer the amount by which such employee has been underpaid.

(7) The Ministry of Labour, Public Service and Human Resources Development has the right to apply this section without prejudice to sub-section (6) above.

9. Freedom of Association

(1) All employees and employers, without restriction whatsoever, shall have the right to establish and, subject only to the rules of the trade unions or Employers’ Association concerned, join trade unions or Employers’ Association of their own choosing.

(2) Trade unions, or Employers’ Associations shall have the right to:

   (a) draw up their constitution, rules, regulations and circulars;

   (b) establish rules and regulations for election of their officers and representatives and hold such elections in full freedom;

   (c) organise their administration and activities;
(d) Establish, join federations and affiliate with regional, continental and International Organizations of employees and employers.

(3) Any provision of employment contract or Collective Agreement that contravenes or limits this provision shall be deemed, null and void.

10. Prohibition of Forced Labour

(1) No person shall engage in the recruitment or use of forced labour or assist any other person to engage in such activities.

(2) For the purpose of this sub-section, the following shall not constitute forced labour:

(a) any work or service exacted by virtue of compulsory military service laws or for work of a purely military character, provided that the recruitment of children for use in armed conflict shall be deemed to be forced labour;
(b) any work or service which forms part of the normal civic obligations of citizens in South Sudan;
(c) any work or service exacted from any person as a consequence of a conviction in a court of law, provided that the work or service is carried out under the control and supervision of a public authority and that the person is not hired out to or placed at the disposal of any private person, company or association;
(d) any work or service exacted in case of emergency, such as in the event of war, natural disaster or threat of natural disaster or calamity, or any other circumstance that may endanger the existence or the wellbeing of the population or part of it; or
(e) Minor community service performed by any member of a community in the direct interest of the community, provided that the members or the representatives of such community are consulted.

(3) Without prejudice to sub-section (1) above, it is forbidden to make use of any form of forced labour as a means of:

(a) political coercion;
(b) economic development;
(c) labour discipline;
(d) punishment for participation in Strikes; and
(e) Discrimination based on any ground listed in Section 6 of this Act.

11. Illegal Movement of Employees

(1) No person shall organize, or assist in the organization of, illicit or clandestine movement of one or more Employees into or out of South Sudan for the purposes of having the Employee perform work for:
(a) the person who organized or assisted in the organization of the illicit or clandestine movement; or

(b) a third party.

(2) An employer shall not employ, or engage for the purposes of performing work an employee whom the employer knows to be illegally present in South Sudan.

12. Minimum Working Age

(1) This section shall apply to all forms of work performed by children, whether or not the child is an employee.

(2) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (3) this section, no person shall engage or permit the engagement of a child under the age of 14 years to perform works defined under section 13 as worst forms of work in this Act.

(3) The prohibition established under sub-section (2) above shall not apply to children’s work in school or in other training institution for educational or vocational purposes, if such work is carried out in accordance with conditions prescribed by the Minister, after consultation with the Council, and is an integral part of:

(a) a course of education or training for which a school or training institution is primarily responsible;

(b) a programme of training approved by the Minister; or

(c) a programme of orientation designed to facilitate the choice of an occupation or of a line of training.

(4) Without prejudice to the provisions of section 25 of the Child Act, 2008, and in line with this section, a child who has attained the age of twelve years may be engaged to perform light work, provided that such work:

(a) is not harmful to the child’s health or safety, or the child’s moral or material welfare or development; and

(b) does not interfere with the child’s attendance at school, participation in vocational orientation or training programmes approved by the Minister or the child’s capacity to benefit from instruction received.

(5) Following consultation with registered trade unions and Employers Association and on advice from the Council, the Minister shall determine the activities in which employment or work may be permitted under sub-section (4) and shall prescribe the number of hours and the conditions of such work.

(6) No person shall engage or permit the engagement of a child under the age of eighteen years to perform hazardous work.

(7) Following consultation with registered trade unions and Employers Association and on advice from the Council, the Minister may issue regulations authorizing the engagement of children who have attained the age of sixteen years to perform specified categories of Hazardous Work, provided that:

(a) special measures are taken to ensure that the child safety and health, and the child moral and material welfare and development, are protected;

(b) the child receives adequate specific instructions or vocational training for the work to be performed;

(c) the number of hours and conditions of such hazardous work shall be as prescribed by regulations.

(8) Following consultation with registered trade unions and employers Association and on advice from the Council, the Minister may establish a system by which a person might obtain a permit to engage a child under the age of fourteen years for such purposes as participation in artistic performances.

(9) The permits provided for in sub-section (8) shall be granted on an individual basis and shall prescribe the conditions and limited number of hours under which the employment is to be allowed.

13. Worst Forms of Child Labour

(1) The Office of the Labour Commissioner may require an employer that employs foreigners to provide security by bond in the prescribed form to the office of the Labour Commissioner.

(2) The amount of the security payable under sub-section (1) of this section shall be such sum as is reasonably determined by the office of the Labour Commissioner.

48. Disputes regarding Employment Contracts

(1) If there is a dispute about the interpretation or application of any provision of this Chapter, any party to the dispute may refer the dispute in writing to the Commission for conciliation in accordance with Section 102 of this Act.

(2) If the Commission fails to resolve the dispute within a period of one month from the date of reference, any party to the dispute may apply to the Labour Court for adjudication.
CHAPTER VI
WAGES/SALARIES

49. Payment of Wages/Salaries

(1) All employers shall pay the wages/salaries of their employees without discrimination on the bases of nationality and in the same legal tender and as stated in Section 8 (1) and (2) of this Act.

(2) Payment of wages/salaries shall be made during working hours of working days at or near the place of employment or to bank account advised in writing by employee to employer.

(3) Employers shall pay wages/salaries of employees as follows:
   (a) for employees employed on an hourly or daily basis, at the end of each day;
   (b) for employees employed for a period of up to one month, at the end of each month; and
   (c) for employees employed to perform a specific task, at the end of completion of the task.

(4) Without prejudice to this section, the Minister may, after consultation with the Council, by regulation, provide for the partial payment of wages/salaries in form of allowances or in kind for the personal use and benefit of an employee.

(5) No employer shall limit, or attempt to limit, the right of an employee to dispose of wages/salaries of such employee in a manner an employee deems fit, nor by the employment contract otherwise seek to compel an employee to dispose of his or her wages/salaries or a portion of such wages/salaries in a particular place or for a particular purpose in which the employer has a direct or indirect beneficial interest.

50. Minimum Wage/Salary

(1) The Council may recommend to the competent authority the review, adjustment and fixing of the minimum wage/salary, taking into account:
   (a) the basic needs of employees;
   (b) the general level of wages/salaries in the country;
   (c) the cost of living and changes in such cost;
   (d) the level of productivity; and
   (e) any other factor that the Council may deem fit.

(2) The minimum wage shall be periodically reviewed in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (1) provided that the review shall each time not take more than two years.
(3) Notwithstanding the principle of equal pay for work of equal value, the Council may recommend to the competent authority fixing different minimum wages/salaries for different occupations or for special categories of employees.

(4) The hourly minimum wage shall constitute one eighth of any daily minimum wage fixed or adjusted according to sub-section (3) of this section.

(5) The Minister shall publish the minimum wage, as adjusted and fixed following recommendation by the Council, in the official gazette or in any public media as the Minister may determine.

(6) The minimum wage shall take effect from the date specified in any publication issued under sub-section (5) above.

(7) An employer who fails to pay an employee in accordance with the minimum wage as adjusted, fixed and published in accordance with this section commits an offence.

51. Deductions from Wages/salaries

(1) An employer shall pay the net due to the employee;

(2) Notwithstanding sub-section (1) above, following deductions from the wage/salary of an employee shall be made:

(a) taxes, rates, subscriptions or contributions provided by law;

(b) alimony or child-care payments ordered by a competent court;

(c) an amount due from an employee as a contribution to a pension scheme, or other scheme established or maintained by the employer or any other person, provided that such scheme has been approved by the office of the Labour Commissioner and that an employee has agreed to contribute;

(d) a reasonable amount by way of rent for any accommodation provided by an employer to an employee, or for goods sold by the employer to the employee; provided that prior consent of the employee has been obtained to the deduction;

(e) an amount on account of monies lent or advanced by the employer to an employee, subject to prior written agreement;

(f) an amount for damage or loss to the property of employer provided that:

(i) the damage or loss has been proven on reasonable grounds to have been negligently caused by an employee;

(ii) the total amount deducted does not exceed the value of the damage or loss actually suffered by the employer

(g) Subscriptions or levies payable by an employee to a registered trade union on account of membership of such trade union, subject to the requirements of 86 of this Act.
(3) With the exception of amounts deducted in accordance with sub-section(2) (a) and (b) of this Section, the total monthly deductions from wages/salaries shall not exceed:

(a) twenty percent of an employee remuneration, if such employee is paid less than three times the minimum wage/salary; and

(b) thirty percent of an employee remuneration exceeding the ceiling referred to in paragraph(a) of this sub-section.

(4) An employee shall be informed of any deductions to be made in accordance with this section, and any conditions under which such deductions may be made.

(5) An employer shall not deduct from the wages/salaries of an employee the cost of any equipment, material, or tool or protective gear or any other tool that the employer has provided to an employee for the purposes of performing the duties under the employment contract.

(6) Any employer who deducts an amount from the wage/salary of employee other than in accordance with this Section violates the provisions of this section.

52. Written Pay Statement

(1) An employer shall provide employee, with each payment of wages/salaries, with a written pay statement in writing in form and language that an employee understands.

(2) The written pay statement shall indicate:

(a) the gross amount of wages/salaries of an employee;

(b) the amount of any deduction in accordance with Section 51 of this Act and the purpose for which such deduction is made;

(c) if any part of the net amount of wages/salaries is paid in a different method, the mode of payment of such part shall be stated; and

(d) any accrued entitlements owing to an employee.

(3) An employer who fails to provide an accurate pay statement in accordance with this section shall be held liable and punishable by law.

53. Final Settlement of Wages/salaries

(1) An employer shall pay an employee all wages/salaries and any other accrued entitlements and benefits to which such employee is entitled within 30 days from the date on which employment of such employee was terminated, regardless of the cause of such termination.

(2) In the event that the termination of employment is due to insolvency of the employer, the wages/salaries and any other accrued entitlements and benefits to which any employee is entitled shall be privileged against the creditors of the employer under Insolvency Act, 2011.
54. Wage/salary Register

(1) An employer shall maintain a wage/salary register in which all particulars of an employee wages/salaries, deductions from wages/salaries and net wages/salaries paid to an employee have been noted regularly.

(2) The wage/salary register under sub-section (1) above shall not contain blanks, erasures or additions and be subject to verification upon inspection.

(3) An Employer shall not be discharged in respect of outstanding wages/salaries owed to an employee until the employee has signed the wage/salary register.

(4) Notwithstanding sub-section (3) above signature of the employee unaccompanied by any stated reservations shall not constitute waiver of any rights on the part of the employee to recover wages/salaries payable under his or her employment contract.

55. Disputes regarding Wages/Salaries

(1) If there is a dispute about the interpretation or application of any provision of this chapter, any party to the dispute may report the dispute in writing to the Commission for Conciliation in accordance with section102 of this Act.

(2) If the dispute remains unresolved following conciliation, any party to the dispute may apply to the Labour Court.
CHAPTER VII

71. Disputes regarding General Conditions of Employment

(1) If a dispute arises regarding interpretation or application of any provision of this Chapter, any party to such dispute may report the dispute in writing to the Commission for conciliation in accordance with Section 104 of this Act.

(2) If the dispute is unresolved following conciliation, any party to the dispute may apply to the Labour Court for adjudication.
CHAPTER VIII

TERMINATION OF EMPLOYMENT CONTRACT

72. Notice of Termination

(1) An employment contract may be terminated by either party:

(a) after continuous service by the employee for one year or more, one month notice to the other party;

(b) after continuous service by the employee for six months or more, but less than one year on two week notice to the other party;

(c) after continuous service by the employee for less than six months, one week notice to the other party.

(2) Subject to sub-section (3) (d) an employment contract for a definite period or for a specified task shall come to an end upon expiry of the defined period or completion of the specified task without either party giving notice to the other party.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of this section nothing shall prevent:

(a) The parties agreeing to a longer period of notice of termination;

(b) The employer waiving the right to receive notice of termination upon the request of an employee;

(c) The employee accepting payment, instead of notice of termination, equivalent to the total wages/salaries and other entitlements to which the employee shall have been entitled for the period of notice required;

(d) Termination without notice for gross misconduct in accordance with section 76 of this Act.

73. Reason(s) for Termination by Employer

(1) An employer may terminate an employment contract based on any or more of the following reasons:

(a) incapacity of an employee to perform work as required by the employment contract;

(b) repeated failure by an employee to perform work as required by the employment contract to a satisfactory standard;

(c) gross misconduct of an employee at work or in circumstances which have a real and substantial connection to the employment with the employer; or

(d) changes in the operational requirements of the employer of which the employee has no capacity to operate.
(2) An employment contract shall not be terminated for the following reasons:

(a) If an employee is a member of or participant in any activity of trade union outside working hours or with the consent of the employer within working hours;

(b) If an employee is seeking office as or acting or having acted as representative of other employees at workplace of the employer;

(c) If employees are filing a complaint or grievance or participating in proceedings against the employer involving an alleged violation of this Act, other laws or regulations or the terms of a Collective Agreement or award;

(d) any of the grounds of discrimination prohibited by section 6 of this Act;

(e) absence of an employee from work for reasons acceptable according to the provisions of this Act or authorization by the employer or

(f) Failure by the employer to provide an employee with any entitlements provided for under this Act or any other applicable law, Collective Agreement or arbitration award.

(3) An employer shall provide an employee with a written statement of the reason for termination:

(a) at the time of giving notice of termination to an employee; or

(b) in circumstances where no notice can be served at the time of termination of the employment contract.

74. Termination for Incapacity

An employer may terminate employment contract where an employee is incapable of performing work required by his or her employment contract due to an illness or injury certified by the South Sudan Medical Commission to be permanent.

75. Termination for Unsatisfactory Performance

(1) An employer shall not terminate employment contract for reasons relating to the repeated failure by an employee to perform work as required by the employment contract to the satisfactory standard, unless the employer has:

(a) Notified an employee of the possibility of termination for such a reason;

(b) explained the way or ways in which the performance of an employee’s not meeting the standard of work required;

(c) provided an employee with a reasonable opportunity to make defence relating to the reasons for failure to meet the standards and given due consideration to defence so made; and
(d) Provided an employee with a reasonable opportunity to improve employee’s performance.

(2) For the purposes of meeting the requirements of paragraph (d) of sub-section (1) above, an employer shall provide an employee with such time, training and support as is reasonable in light of all relevant circumstances, including:

(a) the extent to which an employee has failed to meet the standard of work required and the consequences of that failure for the employer;

(b) the length of employment contract with an employee; and

(c) Any reason or reasons given by an employee for his or her unsatisfactory performance in accordance with paragraph (e) of sub-section (1) above.

76. Termination for Gross Misconduct

(1) An employer shall not terminate the employment of an employee for reasons relating to misconduct of an employee at work, or in circumstances which have a real and substantial connection to the employment contract, unless:

(a) The employee misconduct constitutes gross misconduct;

(b) The employer has previously notified an employee of the possibility of termination in the event of gross misconduct by the employee; and

(c) The employer has established that the employee has committed an act of gross misconduct, having first:

   (i) explained the grounds on which an employee is alleged to have committed an act of gross misconduct;

   (ii) provided the employee with the evidence on which the allegation is made;

   (iii) allowed the employee an opportunity to consider and respond to the allegation and evidence on which the allegation is based;

   (iv) Given due consideration to all circumstances and available evidence relevant to the allegation, including any response given by an employee under clause (iii) of paragraph (c) above.

(2) Employee misconduct shall constitute gross misconduct where it is of such gravity as to make it impossible to continue or to resume the necessary relationship of mutual trust between:

(a) The employee and the employer or

(b) The employee and other employees.

(3) Notwithstanding sub-section (2) above, an employee commits gross misconduct for the purposes of this section if the employee is found to have:
(a) been rendered unable to perform his or her work effectively due to the consumption of alcoholic drinks, narcotics, psychotropic substances or addictive substances in workplace;

(b) been absent from work for a period of more than 72 hours without cause or satisfactory explanation;

(c) violated the fundamental rights of another employee as set out in chapter II of this Act, including, but not limited to, having sexually harassed another employee within the meaning of section 7 of this Act;

(d) assaulted or battered any co-employee or the employer at workplace or in circumstances which have a real and substantial connection to the employment contract with the employer;

(e) negligently or intentionally destroyed or let property of the employer be destroyed, resulting to losses to the employer;

(f) negligently or intentionally exposed any of employee’s employees or other personal place of work to risks in contravention of any section of chapter XI of this Act;

(g) breached employee’s obligation to protect and keep secure confidential information of the Employer unless such breach has been obliged by law upon an employee or caused by the employer or to protect public interest.

(4) An employee shall be entitled to have a representative present during any discussions regarding an allegation of gross misconduct.

(5) Where the employer has established the gross misconduct of an employee in accordance with this section, the employer may terminate the employment contract without giving notice as required by section 72 of this Act.

77. Termination for Redundancy

(1) This section shall apply when an employer intends termination of not less than ten employees within a period of three months for reasons of redundancy due to changes in the operational requirements of the employer.

(2) An employer may not terminate an employment contract on account of redundancy unless the employer has:

(a) notified the Ministry, not less than two months prior to the intended date of termination, of the intention to reduce the number of employees, disclosing all relevant information including:

(i) reasons for the intended redundancy;

(ii) any measure adopted or to be adopted in order to minimize the intended retrenchment;
(iii) the method for selection of employees to be retrenched;

(iv) schedule for the reduction; and

(v) severance pay in respect of the reduction;

(b) if an employee to be affected by the reduction is a member of a registered trade union, notified that trade union, and any workplace representatives of that trade union, of the reasons for and the extent of such reduction not less than a (30) days prior to the intended date of termination on account of redundancy.

(3) Subject to sub-section (4) below, an employee whose employment is terminated on account of redundancy, after continuous service of one year or more, shall be entitled to receive, in addition to any other entitlements due to such employee upon termination, severance pay equal to two week wages/salaries for each completed year of continuous service with the employer.

(4) In the event of redundancy due to the insolvency of the employer, the Insolvency Act 2011 shall govern an employee claim for wages/salaries, severance pay and other entitlements.

(5) Following consultation with registered trade unions and Employers’ Association, the Minister may issue regulations establishing additional requirements, or detailing the procedures to be followed, in cases of redundancy.

78. Termination due to Death

(1) The death of an employee shall cause the termination of an employment contract.

(2) An employment contract shall come to end one month from the date of the death of an employee, unless it is otherwise legally determined.

(3) If, on the death of an employer, an employee continues to be employed by the legal representative or trustee of the deceased, an employee shall be deemed to continue with the same employment contract uninterrupted.

(4) Upon coming to an end of an employment contract due to death of an employee, the heirs or legal representatives of such employee shall be entitled to wages/salaries and any other remuneration due to the employee before employee’s death.

79. Summary Termination

(1) If an employee leaves employment because the conduct of the employer made it no longer reasonable to continue in employment, the employer is taken, in the absence of proof to the contrary, to have terminated an employee’s employment contract.

(2) Summary termination shall take place when an employer terminates the service of an employee without notice or with less notice than that to which the employee is entitled by any statutory provision or contractual term.
(3) An employer is entitled to dismiss summarily an employee and the dismissal shall be termed justified, where the employee has, by his or her conduct indicated that he or she has fundamentally broken his or her obligations arising under the employment contract.

(4) Subject to this section, no employer has the right to terminate a contract of service without notice or with less notice than that to which the employee is entitled by any statutory provision or contractual terms.

80. Severance Pay

(1) Subject to this Act, an employer shall pay severance allowance where an employee has been in his or her continuous service for a period of six months or more and where any of the following situations apply:

(a) the employee is unfairly dismissed by the employer;

(b) the employee dies in the service of his or her employer;

(c) the employee terminates his or her contract because of physical incapacity;

(d) the contract is terminated by reason of the death or insolvency of the employer; and

(e) such other circumstances as the Minister may by regulations provide.

(2) No severance allowance shall be paid in circumstances where an employee:

(a) is summarily dismissed with justification;

(b) abandons his or her employment, or absconds from his or her place of work without leave for a period of more than seven days without any explanation being provided to the employer; and

(c) contract which is terminated is a probationary contract.

(3) Calculation of severance pay shall be negotiable between the employer and the employees or the trade union that represents them.

81. Gratuity Pay

(1) An employee who completes a period of not less than one year of continuous service shall be entitled to a gratuity pay to be calculated as follows;

(a) if he or she has completed a period of not less than one year, and not more than ten years, he or she shall be entitled to one month gross salary in respect of each year of service;
(b) if he or she has completed more than ten years, he or she shall be entitled to one and a half of month’s gross salary in respect of each year; and

(c) if he or she has completed more than fifteen years, he or she shall be entitled to one and three quarters of a month’s gross salary in respect of each additional year of service, provided that the gratuity shall not exceed 36 months gross salary.

(2) Notwithstanding sub-section (1) above, gratuities shall be calculated on the basis of the last month gross salary.

(3) After the service, gratuity for the production employee shall be calculated on the basis of the average gross income during the last three years.

82. Cancellation of Termination

If, after the day on which a notice of termination expires, the employer requests an employee to remain in employment, or an employee continues working without the express dissent of the employer, the notice of termination shall be deemed to be null and void and the employment contract shall still be valid.

83. Disputes regarding Termination of Employment Contract

(1) If there arises any dispute about termination of employment contract, employee may report the dispute in writing to the Commission for conciliation in accordance with Section 102 of this Act;

(2) A dispute under this section shall be reported to the Commission within thirty days from the date of the termination or, if it is a later date, within thirty days of the employer making a final decision to overturn or uphold the termination.

(3) On application by an employee, the Commission may extend the time for reporting a dispute regarding termination of employment where a genuine impediment prevented the employee from reporting the dispute in the time limit set by sub-section (2) above.

(4) Where an employment contract is terminated by notice, an employee may report the dispute to the Commission once the employee has received that notice.

(5) If the dispute remains unresolved following conciliation, an employee may apply to the Labour Court.

(6) An application to the Labour Court under sub-section (5) above shall be made within 30 days from the date on which the Labour Commissioner issues a certificate under section 103 of this Act.

(7) The reporting of a dispute to the Commission shall be free of charge.

(8) This section shall not apply to employees serving under probationary period in accordance with Section 42(2) of this Act.
84. Burden of Proof in Disputed Termination Proceedings

(1) In proceedings before the Labour Court concerning a dispute under this chapter in which an employee alleges that the termination was for an invalid reason, the employee shall establish the existence of a termination.

(2) If the existence of the termination is established, the employer shall prove that the termination was effected:

   (a) in accordance with the requirements of this Chapter or

   (b) for a valid reason and in accordance with fair procedure, taking into account all relevant circumstances.

(3) Where the employer fails to satisfy the requirements of sub-section (2) above, the employee may apply to the Labour Court.

(4) In other cases, the Labour Court shall make decision of unfair termination if:

   (a) an employee establishes that a termination was effected other than in accordance with the requirements of this Chapter; and

   (b) the employer fails to prove that the termination was otherwise effected for a valid reason and in accordance with fair procedure.

85. Remedies for Unfair Termination

(1) Where the Labour Court makes a decision on unfair termination, the Court may order the Employer:

   (a) to reinstate an employee in the position held by an employee or relocate an employee in a reasonably comparable position and on the same terms and conditions enjoyed by an employee prior to the termination;

   (b) to treat the employment contract as having continued without interruption on an employee period of continuous service, where reinstatement or re-engagement is ordered;

   (c) to pay an employee an amount equivalent to any wages/salaries lost by such employee as a result of the termination, where reinstatement or re-engagement is ordered;

   (d) to pay an employee an amount by way of compensation as determined by the Labour Court in accordance with sub-section (3) below.

(2) The Labour Court shall order reinstatement or re-location under paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) above, unless the employer proves that:

   (a) It is not possible to resume the necessary relationship of mutual trust and confidence between the:
(i) employee and the employer; or
(ii) employee and other employees of the employer.

(b) The organisation of work in the enterprise has so substantially changed that:
(i) the position held by an employee prior to the termination no longer exists;
(ii) There is no reasonably comparable position available for the employee.

(3) For the purposes of determining the amount of an order for compensation under paragraph (d) of sub-section (1) above, the Commissioner or Labour Court shall determine, a fair and equitable amount taking into account:

(a) the circumstances in which the termination took place, including the extent to which an employee caused or contributed to the termination;
(b) the length of service by an employee with the employer;
(c) the reasonable expectation of an employee as to the length of time for which employment might have continued but for termination;
(d) any opportunity available to an employee for securing comparable or suitable employment with another employer;
(e) any reasonable expense incurred by an employee as a consequence of the termination;
(f) any failure by an employee to mitigate the losses attributable to the unfair termination and abscondment;
(g) Any compensation, including ex-gratia payment, in respect of termination paid by the employer and received by an employee.

(4) No order shall be made for the recovery of costs incurred by a party to an unfair termination arbitration or adjudication, unless the Labour Court is satisfied that the dispute was reported, pursued or defended by the other party in a manner that was frivolous or vexatious.

86. Deduction of Registered Trade union Subscriptions

(1) Any registered trade union shall authorise the employer in writing to deduct subscriptions from its employee’s wages/salaries.

(2) Notwithstanding sub-section (1) above, the employer shall remit total deduction to the trade union.

(3) With each monthly remittance, the employer shall give the registered Trade union:

(a) a list of names of every member from whose wages the employer has made the deduction and remittance;
(b) Details of the amounts deducted and remitted and the period to which such deductions relate.

87. Recognition as Exclusive Bargaining Agent of Employees

(1) A registered trade union that represents the majority of employees in an appropriate bargaining unit is entitled to recognition as the exclusive bargaining agent of employees in that bargaining unit for the purpose of negotiating a Collective Agreement.

(2) An employer or Employers’ Association shall not recognise a trade union as an exclusive bargaining agent under this Act unless it is a registered trade union under the Workers Trade unions Act, 2013.

(3) A registered trade union may seek recognition as an exclusive bargaining agent of an appropriate bargaining unit by delivering a request to:

(a) an employer to recognise it as the exclusive bargaining agent of a bargaining unit consisting of employees or some of its employees;

(b) An Employers’ Association to recognise it as the exclusive bargaining agent of a bargaining unit consisting of employees of its members.

(c) Within thirty days after the receipt of the request, the employer or the Employers’ Association shall notify the trade union in the prescribed form either that:

(i) It recognises the trade union as the exclusive bargaining agent of employees in the bargaining unit as proposed by the trade union or agreed to by the trade union and the employer;

(ii) It refuses to recognise the trade union because it disputes the appropriateness of the proposed bargaining unit or that the Trade union does not represent the majority of employees as proposed to be the bargaining unit.

(4) If the employer or the Employers’ Association fails or refuses to notify the trade union as required under sub-section (4) above or notifies its refusal to recognise the trade union, the trade union may apply to the Commission for an order recognising the trade union as the exclusive bargaining agent.

(5) If, upon application by a registered trade union, the Commission is satisfied that the trade union represents the majority of the employees in the agreed bargaining unit or that the Commission considers the bargaining unit to be appropriate, the Commission may make an order declaring the trade union to be recognised as the exclusive bargaining agent of the employees in the agreed or appropriate bargaining unit.

(6) In determining the appropriateness of a bargaining unit for the purposes of sub-section (6) above, the Commission shall:

(a) take the organisational structure of the employer into account; and

(b) Promote orderly and effective collective bargaining with a minimum division of Employers’ Association structure.
(7) If an employer or Employers’ Association has recognised a registered trade union as an exclusive bargaining agent and the trade union no longer represents the majority of an employees in the bargaining unit, the employer or Employers’ Association shall:

(a) give the trade union notice in the prescribed form to acquire a majority within three months;

(b) withdraw recognition from that trade union if it fails to acquire that majority at the expiry of the three-month period.

(8) On application by a trade union affected by action taken under sub-section (8) above, the Commission may, subject to the principles set out in sub-sections (6) and (7) above, make an order:

(a) declaring that the trade union represents a majority of employees in the bargaining unit;

(b) giving the trade union a further opportunity to acquire a majority;

(c) altering the bargaining unit;

(d) withdrawing recognition of the trade union as the exclusive bargaining agent of the employees in the bargaining unit.

(9) A registered trade union, which has been recognised as an exclusive bargaining agent in respect of the bargaining unit in question has a duty to represent the interests of every employee falling in that bargaining unit, whether or not employees are members of that trade union.
CHAPTER IX
COLLECTIVE BARGAINING
Collective Agreements

88. Initiation of Collective Agreement Negotiations

(1) Negotiation of a Collective Agreement shall be initiated by submitting a written list of demands to the party or parties with whom the initiating party wishes to conclude a Collective Agreement.

(2) A party who receives a list of demands under this section shall, within fourteen days:

   (a) acknowledge receipt of the demands;

   (b) Nominate a date, time and place to commence negotiations not later than thirty days from the date of the acknowledgement.

(3) Paragraph (b) of sub-section (2) above shall not apply if the list of demands is submitted by or on behalf of one or more trade unions not:

   (a) registered under the Workers Trade Unions Act, 2013;

   (b) an exclusive bargaining agent, in circumstances where an exclusive bargaining agent has been recognised under Section 87 of this Act in relation to employees covered by the list of demands.

89. Duty to Negotiate in Good Faith

(1) Parties to the negotiations of a Collective Agreement shall negotiate in good faith and make every effort to conclude a Collective Agreement.

(2) The duty to negotiate in good faith includes, but not limited to:

   (a) attending and participating in meetings at working hours;

   (b) disclosing relevant information at the right time;

   (c) responding to proposals made by other parties to the negotiations at the right time;

   (d) giving acceptable consideration to the proposals of other parties to the negotiations, and giving reasons for responding to those proposals;

   (e) refraining from unfair conduct that undermines freedom of association or collective bargaining; and

   (f) Recognising and bargaining with the other parties to the negotiation of the Collective Agreement.
If any party refuses to participate in the negotiation of a Collective Agreement, the affected party may apply to the Commission for an order directing the other party to negotiate in good faith.

Upon application under sub-section (3) above, the Commission may issue an order either:

(a) requiring one or more parties to attend and participate in the negotiation process;

(b) prohibiting an unlawful strike or lockout;

(c) Determining a procedure to be followed to ensure good faith negotiations.

The Commission shall make any order under sub-section (4) above within 14 days of the conclusion of the proceedings in which the application was heard.

90. Content of Collective Agreements

(1) A Collective Agreement shall contain provisions establishing:

(a) a procedure for settlement of a dispute regarding the interpretation and application of such agreement, involving a requirement that the parties to the dispute first attempt to resolve the dispute through conciliation and, if the dispute remains unresolved, to resolve it through arbitration; and

(b) where the Collective Agreement is for a definite period, the initial term of the Collective Agreement and any procedures to be followed for the purposes of renewing the Collective Agreement upon expiry of that term.

(2) A Collective Agreement may contain provisions regulating any matter of mutual interest to the parties.

(3) Any provision of a Collective Agreement that purports to exclude or nullify any provision of this Act or has the effect of prejudicing any entitlements of an employee under this Act shall be null and void.

91. Registration of Collective Agreement

(1) A copy of a Collective Agreement, signed by every party to the Agreement, shall be lodged with the Office of the Labour Commissioner within thirty days of its conclusion.

(2) The Office of the Labour Commissioner shall register a Collective Agreement lodged under sub-section (1) above, unless the Office is of the view that the Collective Agreement does not comply with any provision of this Act, or has the effect of prejudicing Employee’s entitlements under this Act.

(3) The Collective Agreement shall be taken to be registered within thirty days of lodgment with the Office of the Labour Commissioner, unless the Office notifies the parties that registration has been refused.
(4) Where notice of refusal has been received under sub-section (3) above, a party to the Collective Agreement may appeal to the Labour Court within thirty days from the date on which notice was received.

(5) Registration of a Collective Agreement does not prejudice the effect of section 90 of this Act.

92. Legal Effect of Registered Collective Agreements

(1) A Collective Agreement shall take legal effect upon the date of registration.

(2) A registered Collective Agreement shall bind:

   (a) the parties to the Agreement;

   (b) each party to the Collective Agreement and the members of every other party to the Agreement, in so far as the provisions are applicable between them;

   (c) the members of a registered trade union and the employers who are members of a registered Employers’ Association are parties to the Collective Agreement if the Agreement regulates:

      (i) terms and conditions of employment;

      (ii) the conduct of the employers in relation to their employees or the conduct of the employees in relation to their employers.

   (d) Employees who are not members of the registered trade union or trade unions are parties to the agreement if:

      (i) The employees are identified in the agreement;

      (ii) the agreement expressly binds the employees;

      (iii) the registered trade union or trade unions have as their members the majority of employees employed by the employer in the workplace.

(3) A registered Collective Agreement binds for the whole period of the Collective Agreement every person bound under paragraph (c) of sub-section (2) above who was a member at the time it became binding, or who becomes a member after it became binding, whether or not that person continues to be a member of the registered trade union or registered Employers’ Association for the duration of the Collective Agreement.

(4) Where applicable, a registered Collective Agreement varies with any contract between employee and employer bound by the Collective Agreement.

(5) Unless the Collective Agreement provides otherwise, any party to a Collective Agreement concluded for an indefinite period may terminate the Collective Agreement by giving reasonable notice in writing to the other parties and the Office of the Labour Commissioner.
93. Notification of Collective Agreement

An employer shall display Collective Agreements binding on that employer in a conspicuous place that is accessible to all employees bound by the Collective Agreement.

94. Disputes Regarding Matters of Mutual Interest

(1) Any party to a dispute about a matter of mutual interest may report the dispute in writing to the Office of the Labour Commissioner for conciliation in accordance with Section 102 of this Act.

(2) If the dispute remains unresolved following conciliation, any party to the dispute may request that the dispute be resolved by arbitration in accordance with Section 102 of this Act.

95. Disputes Regarding Collective Agreements

(1) If there is a dispute regarding interpretation or application of a Collective Agreement, any party to such dispute may report the dispute in writing to the Commission for conciliation in accordance with Section 104 of this Act if:

   (a) the Collective Agreement does not provide for a procedure as required under paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) of section 90 of this Act;

   (b) the procedure provided for in the Collective Agreement is not operative;

   (c) Any party to the Collective Agreement has frustrated the resolution of the dispute in terms of the Collective Agreement.

(2) If the dispute remains unresolved, any party to the dispute may request that the dispute be resolved through arbitration in accordance with Section 102 of this Act.

STRIKES AND LOCKOUTS

96. Right to Strike and Recourse to Lockout

(1) Subject to the provisions of this chapter, every employee has the right to Strike and every employer has the right to Lockout action for the purposes of seeking to resolve a dispute regarding any matter of mutual interest to which an employee or employer is a party.

(2) Before exercising the right under sub-section (1) above, an employee or employer shall:

   (a) take all reasonable steps to resolve the dispute in good faith;

   (b) take all reasonable steps to resolve the dispute through conciliation and arbitration in accordance with chapter X of this Act;
(c) give the other party or parties to the dispute not less than seven-day written notice of the intended strike or lockout.

(3) The requirements of sub-section (2) above shall not apply to a strike or a lockout if the:

(a) strike or lockout conforms to the procedures in a Collective Agreement;

(b) strike is in response to a lockout that does not comply with the provisions of this chapter;

(c) lockout is in response to a Strike that does not conform with the provisions of this chapter, or

(d) employer fails to comply with the requirements of sub-section (4) of this section below.

(4) Where a dispute concerns a unilateral change to the terms and conditions of employment, the employee or trade union party may, upon reporting the dispute to the Commission in accordance with chapter X of this Act, request the employer not to unilaterally implement the change or to restore any change so implemented, until such time a certificate is issued in accordance with section 103(7) of this Act.

97. Limitations on the Right to Strike and Recourse to Lockout

(1) No person may take part in a strike or a lockout or in any conduct in contemplation or furtherance of a strike or a lockout if that person is:

(a) bound by a Collective Agreement that prohibits a strike or lockout in respect of the issue in dispute;

(b) bound by a Collective Agreement that requires the issue in dispute to be referred to arbitration; or

(c) is engaged in an essential service.

(2) Subject to the terms of a Collective Agreement, no person may take part in a strike or a lockout, or in any conduct in contemplation or furtherance of a strike or a lockout, if any arbitration award or Collective Agreement that regulates the issue in dispute binds that person.

98. Strike or Lockout in Compliance with this Act

(1) Taking part in a protected Strike or a protected lockout or any conduct in contemplation or in furtherance of a protected strike or a protected lockout shall not constitute a defect or a breach of contract.

(2) Subject to sub-section (1) above, the employer is not obliged to remunerate an employee for services that an employee does not render during a protected strike or protected lockout, as the case maybe, save:
(a) if an employee remuneration includes payment in kind in respect of accommodation, the provision of food and other basic amenities of life, the employer, at the request of an employee, shall not discontinue payment in kind during the strike or lockout; and

(b) after the end of the strike or lockout, the employer shall recover the monetary value of the payment in kind made at the request of the employee during the strike or lockout on the usual as per earlier agreement for deduction of cost for such accommodation food or other basic amenities of life between the Employer and the employee.

(4) An employer may not terminate employment contract for the participation of an employee in a protected strike or for any conduct in contemplation or in furtherance of a protected strike.

(5) Notwithstanding sub-section (4) above an employer shall not be precluded from terminating the employment contract of an employee in accordance with the provisions of chapter VIII of this Act for reasons related to the misconduct of an employee during the strike or for reasons based on the employer operational requirements.

(6) Civil proceedings may not be instituted against any party for:

(a) participating in a protected strike or a protected lockout or

(b) any conduct in contemplation or in furtherance of a protected strike or a protected lockout.

(7) The failure by a registered trade union or a registered Employers’ Association to comply with the provisions in its constitution requiring it to conduct a vote of those of its members in respect of whom it intends to call a strike or lockout may not give rise to, or constitute a ground for, any litigation that will affect the legality of, and the protection conferred by this section on, the strike or lockout.

(8) The provisions of sub-sections (1) and (5) above shall not apply to any act in contemplation or in furtherance of a strike or a lockout, if that act is an offence under any law.

99. Strike or Lockout Not in Compliance with this Act

(1) In case of any strike or lockout or any conduct in contemplation or in furtherance of a strike or lockout that does not comply with the provisions of this chapter, the Commission may, on application by an affected party, make an order for restraining:

(a) Any party from participating in a strike or any conduct in contemplation or in furtherance of a strike; or

(b) Any party from participating in a lockout or any conduct in contemplation or in furtherance of a lockout.
(2) In case of any strike or lockout, or any conduct in contemplation or in furtherance of a strike or lockout, that does not comply with the provisions of this chapter, the Labour Court shall have jurisdiction, on application by an affected party:

(a) To confirm, vary or set aside an order made by the Commission under sub-section (1) above or

(b) to order the payment of just and equitable compensation for any loss attributable to the strike, lockout or conduct having regards to:

(i) Attempts have been made to comply with the provisions of this Chapter and the extent of such attempts;

(ii) whether the strike, lockout or conduct was premeditated;

(iii) whether the strike, lockout or conduct was in response to unjustified conduct by another party to the dispute;

(iv) whether compliance with an order granted in accordance with paragraph (a) of this sub-section has been made;

(v) interests of negotiation of Collective Agreements;

(vi) the duration of the strike, lockout or conduct; and

(vii) The financial position of the employer, trade union or employees respectively.

(3) The Commission or Labour Court may not grant any order in accordance with paragraph (a) of sub-section (1) or (2) above unless forty-eight hour notice of the application has been given to the respondent.

(4) The Commission or Labour Court may permit a shorter period of notice for the purposes of sub-section (3) above if:

(a) the applicant has given written notice to the respondent of intention to apply for the granting of an order;

(b) the respondent has been given an opportunity to be heard before a decision concerning that application is taken or

(c) the applicant has shown good cause why a period shorter than forty-eight hours should be permitted.

(5) Notwithstanding sub-sections (3) and (4) above, if a written notice of the commencement of the proposed strike or lockout was given to the applicant at least fourteen days before the commencement of the proposed strike or lockout, the applicant shall give at least five-day notice to the respondent of an application for an order in accordance with sub-section (1) above.
(6) Participation in a strike not complying with the provisions of this chapter or conduct in contemplation or in furtherance of that strike may constitute a valid reason for termination of employment contract.

100. Striking Employee Not to be Replaced

(1) An employer shall not employ or otherwise engage any person to perform the work of any employee participating in a protected strike or during lockout.

(2) An employee may refuse to perform the work of another employee engaged in a protected strike or during lockout.

101. Picketing

(1) A registered trade union may authorise a picket by its members and supporters for the purposes of peaceful demonstration:

(a) in support of any protected strike; or

(b) in opposition to any lockout.

(2) Notwithstanding any law regulating the right of assembly, a picket authorised in accordance with sub-section (1) above may be held:

(a) at any place to which the public has access but outside the premises of the employer or

(b) with permission of the employer, inside the premises of such Employer.

(3) The permission referred to in paragraph (b) of sub-section (2) above may not be unjustly withheld.

(4) If requested to do so by registered trade union or employer, the Commission shall attempt to secure an agreement between the parties to a dispute on rules that apply to picketing in relation to strike or lockout.

(5) If there is no agreement, the Commission shall establish picketing rules taking into consideration of the following:

(a) particular circumstances of the workplace or other premises where it is intended that the right to picket is to be exercised and

(b) any relevant code of good practice.

(6) The rules established by the Commission may provide for picketing by employees on their employer premises if the Commission is satisfied that the employer permission has been unjustly withheld.

(7) Any party to a dispute about any of the following issues may report such dispute in writing to the Commission:
(a) an allegation that the effective use of the right to picket is being undermined;

(b) an alleged material contravention of sub-section (1) or (2) above;

(c) an alleged material breach of an agreement concluded in accordance with sub-section (4) above or

(d) an alleged material breach of a rule established in accordance with sub-section (5) above.

(8) The party reporting a dispute to the Commission shall satisfy the Commission that a copy of the report has been served on all the other parties to such dispute.

(9) The Commission shall attempt to resolve the dispute through conciliation.

(10) If the dispute remains unresolved, any party to such dispute may apply to the Labour Court.
CHAPTER X

DISPUTE RESOLUTION

102. Reporting of Disputes

(1) A party reporting a dispute in accordance with the provisions of this Act shall lodge with the Commission a written report specifying:
   (a) parties to the dispute;
   (b) party by whom or on whose behalf the report is made;
   (c) matter under dispute;
   (d) status of the negotiations of any matter under dispute; and
   (e) Any additional information required by the Commission.

(2) The party who reports the dispute to the Commission shall satisfy the Commission that a copy of the report has been served on each party to the dispute.

(3) The Commission may resolve the dispute or refer it for conciliation to a Labour Commissioner under section (103) of this Act.

103. Conciliation of Disputes

(1) The Commission may request the Office of the Labour Commissioner to appoint a Labour Commissioner to attempt to resolve a dispute through conciliation where such dispute is reported to the Commission in accordance with this Act.

(2) The appointed Labour Commissioner shall attempt to resolve the dispute through conciliation within thirty days from the date of receipt of the report, unless the parties to such dispute agree to a longer period for conciliation.

(3) The Labour Commissioner shall determine procedure to resolve the dispute, which may include:
   (a) mediation of the dispute;
   (b) conducting a fact-finding; and
   (c) making a recommendation to the parties for advisory arbitration.

(4) If a labour commissioner has been appointed in accordance with sub-section (1) above, in respect of more than one dispute involving the same parties, such Labour Commissioner may consolidate the conciliation proceedings so that all the disputes may be dealt with in the same proceedings.

(5) Without prejudice to sub-section (1) above, if the parties to a dispute are engaged in an Essential Service they may agree within seven days of the date the Commission received the report to:
   (a) the appointment of a specific Labour Commissioner by the Commission to attempt to resolve the dispute through conciliation; and
Terms of reference set by the Labour Commissioner.

If the parties to a dispute under sub-section (5) above agree to either of those matters within the seven-day period, the Commission shall as soon as possible:

(a) appoint a Labour Commissioner to attempt to resolve the dispute; and

(b) Determine the Labour Commissioner's terms of reference.

At the end of the thirty-day period referred to in sub-section (2) above or such further period as agreed between the parties the:

(a) Labour Commissioner shall issue a certificate stating whether or not the dispute has been resolved;

(b) Commission shall serve a copy of that certificate on each party to the dispute or the person who represented a party in the conciliation proceedings; and

(c) Labour Commissioner shall file the original of that certificate with the Commission.

104. Arbitration of Disputes

The Commission may request the Office of the Labour Commissioner to appoint a Labour Commissioner to arbitrate a dispute if:

(a) a certificate has been issued stating that the dispute has not been resolved through conciliation;

(b) within ninety days of the issue of that certificate, a party to the dispute requests that the dispute be resolved by arbitration; and

(c) All parties to the dispute agree in writing to arbitration under the auspices of the Commission.

Unless a party to a dispute provides written notice to the Commission and other parties of his or her objection, a labour commissioner appointed under sub-section (1) above may be the same Labour Commissioner who attempted to resolve the dispute through conciliation.

The Labour Commissioner may conduct arbitration in a manner that the Labour Commissioner considers appropriate in order to determine the dispute fairly by dealing with substantial issues of the dispute within minimum legal formalities.

Subject to discretion of the Labour Commissioner as to appropriate form of the proceedings, a party to a dispute may give evidence, call witnesses, question witnesses of any other party and make concluding arguments before the Labour Commissioner.

If all the parties consent, the Labour Commissioner may suspend the arbitration proceedings and attempt to resolve the dispute through conciliation.

Within fourteen days of conclusion of arbitration proceedings the:

(a) Labour Commissioner shall issue a signed arbitration award with brief reasons;
(b) Commission shall serve a copy of that award on each party to the dispute or the representative of a party in such arbitration proceedings;

(c) Commission shall keep in its custody the original copy of the arbitration award.

(7) Any aggrieved party by the decision of the Labour Commissioner in arbitration award shall have the right to object within thirty days from the date of the award to the Labour Court.

(8) The Labour Commissioner may make any appropriate arbitration award in accordance with provisions of this Act, including but not limited to, an award that:

(a) gives effect to Collective Agreement;

(b) gives effect to the provisions and primary objects of this Act; and

(c) Includes or is in the form of a declaratory order.

105. Special Provisions for Disputes Involving Essential Services

(1) If a certificate has been issued stating that a dispute involving parties engaged in an Essential Service has not been resolved through conciliation, the Commission shall request the Office of the Labour Commissioner to appoint a Labour Commissioner to arbitrate the dispute within thirty days of the issue of such certificate, without request or consent of any party to the dispute.

(2) The office of the Labour Commissioner may not include an order for costs in the arbitration award made in relation to a dispute involving parties engaged in an essential service unless a party or his or her representative in the arbitration proceedings acted in a frivolous or vexatious manner during the arbitration proceedings.

106. Powers of Labour Commissioner Appointed to Resolve Disputes

(1) Subject to any requirements set by the Commission under Section25 of this Act, the Labour Commissioner who has been appointed to attempt to resolve a dispute under this Act may:

(a) Summon for questioning any person who may be able to give information or whose presence at the conciliation or arbitration proceedings may help to resolve the dispute;

(b) Summon any person believed to have possession or control of any book of records, document or object relevant to the resolution of the dispute to appear before him or her for questioning or to produce the book of records, document or object;

(c) call and if necessary summon an expert to appear before him or her to give expert opinion relevant to the resolution of the dispute;
(d) call any person present at the conciliation or arbitration proceedings or who was or could have been summoned for any purpose set out in this section to be questioned about any matter relevant to the dispute;

(e) administer an oath or an affirmation from any person called to give evidence or be questioned;

(f) at any time, but only after obtaining necessary written authorization:

(i) enters and inspects any premises on or in which any book of records, document or object relevant to the resolution of the dispute is believed or likely to be found;

(ii) examines, demands production of and seizes any book of records, document or object that is found on the premises and is relevant to the resolution of the dispute; and

(iii) takes a statement in respect of any matter relevant to the resolution of the dispute from any person on the premises willing to make a statement

(g) Inspect, retain for a reasonable period any book of records, document or object produced to or seized by the Commission.

(2) A person commits violation of the Commission order:

(a) if, after having been summoned to appear before the Labour Commissioner, he or she without good reason refuses to appear at place and time stated in the summon;

(b) if, after having appeared in response to a summon, that person fails to remain in attendance until excused by the Labour Commissioner;

(c) by refusing to take oath or to make an affirmation as a witness when the Labour Commissioner so requires;

(d) subject to any rights the person under the law related to privilege as it applies to a witness summoned to give evidence or to produce any book of records, document or object before a court of law, by refusing to answer any question fully and to the best of that person’s knowledge and belief;

(e) if the person, without good cause, fails to produce any book of records, document or object specified in summons to the Labour Commissioner;

(f) if the person willfully hinders the Labour Commissioner in performing any function conferred upon him or her under this Act;

(g) if the Person insults, disparages or belittles the Labour Commissioner or prejudices or improperly influences the proceedings or improperly anticipates the Labour Commissioner award;

(h) by willfully interrupting the conciliation or arbitration proceedings or misbehaving in any other manner during those proceedings or by doing
107. Review of Arbitration Awards

Any party to a dispute may within six weeks from the date the award has been made by the Labour Commissioner file an application for review of such award by the labour court in case of not being satisfied with the proceedings or the award or both; provided that such party shall provide in his or her application the reasons for the review and the remedy being sought from the court.

108. Establishment and Jurisdiction of Labour Court

(1) The Competent Authority, in consultation with the chief justice, shall constitute a Labour Court of arbitration as follows:

   (a) A judge whose grade is not less than a judge of the High Court to be appointed by the Chief Justice, Chairperson;

   (b) In case of private sector an employer who has no connection with the dispute to be nominated by the employer, in case of public sector a representative of government institutions related to and dealing with labour matters;

   (c) A representative of a trade Union which has no direct connection with the dispute to be nominated by the trade union party to the dispute;

   (d) A representative of the Ministry of Public Service, Labour and Human Resource Development;

   (e) A person experienced in industrial relations.

(2) The Labour Court shall follow normal legal procedures used by formal courts when addressing and litigating on labour disputes.

(3) The Chairperson of the Labour Court shall within a period not exceeding one week from the date of reference of a dispute for arbitration, fix a date for hearing thereof.

(4) Presence of 3 members including the Chairperson shall constitute a quorum for the tribunal.

(5) An arbitration tribunal shall consider and decide a dispute within a period not exceeding 4 weeks.

(6) A party to a dispute may engage an advocate at the court.

(7) The decision of the Tribunal shall be final and the award if any binding.

(8) The Labour Court shall follow normal legal procedures used by other specialised courts when addressing and litigating on labour disputes.

(9) The Labour Court shall deal with all labour related disputes, and shall have jurisdiction over the application, interpretation and implementation of the provisions of this Act and to decide:

   (a) appeals from the decisions of the Labour Commissioner made under Chapter III of this Act;
(b) reviews and revisions of the arbitrator’s award made under this chapter;
(c) reviews of decisions, rules or regulations made by the Minister under this Act;
(d) complaints, other than those that are to be decided by arbitration under the provisions of this Act;
(e) any dispute reserved for decision by the Labour Court under this Act;
(f) application including a declaratory order or an injunction in respect of any provision of this Act

(10) The Labour Court may refuse to hear a complaint if:
(a) the complaint has not been referred to conciliation by the Commission under section 103;
(b) the provisions of that section have not been complied with; and

(11) Where a party refers a dispute to the Labour Court, the Court may:
